Willimantic Lodge, No. 120, A. B. S. meets at 733 Main street.

Willimantic Commandery, No. 266, U. O. G. C. meets.

Windham Encampment, No. 10, I. O. O. F. meets at 407 Main street.

A meeting of women from Willimantic and surrounding towns was held Tuesday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building under the auspices of the Woman's auxiliary of the Y. The purpose of the meeting was to arouse interest in the play, "The Five Million," which is to be given in this city during April. Mrs. C. D. Stone, president of the auxiliary, opened the meeting shortly before 8 o'clock and called upon Miss Elizabeth Abbe of Windham, who told of the play "The Five Million" and what it taught. Miss Maude Sheerer of New York who is to direct the play, explained that this play had run seven months in New York before being released for the road, and when it showed in this city it would be the first time on the stage acted entirely by amateurs. It is the plan of these endeavoring to bring the play to this city to make it possible for the community at large to take part in the play. The play will be presented under the auspices of the Y. persons belonging to other organizations are to be asked to take part. Frank Hill, then outlined a plan whereby persons from towns surrounding Willimantic could participate in the play and arrangements for their transportation will be taken care of. Sub-committee from each of the surrounding towns will take charge of these affairs for their own community.

Miss Grace Randall, assistant director of the play, explained the competitive play idea. It is her plan to have people design a poster illustrating the play and these will be judged for their artistic value and advertising value. Three prizes will be given and the posters will be placed on exhibition in some local store window. Following Miss Randall's talk, members of the auxiliary served iced wafers to the guests.

Michael A. Welch of Jackson street is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, suffering with injuries about the legs and face, received when he was struck by chunks of ice hurled high in the air when a manhole cover on one of the Southern New England systems of conduits on Jackson street in front of the building where Welch and his family lives was blown off, because of pressure of gas within the conduit. Mr. Welch, who is an early riser, is in the habit of taking a walk before breakfast, and Tuesday morning he left his house about 7:30 and started down Jackson street. He had not gone far when he was suddenly hurled up against the show window of a confectionery store occupying the corner space, breaking the glass, which cut him badly about the face. He also sustained injuries about the legs, due to the chunks of ice hurled by the force of the explosion.

People living in that neighborhood rushed from their homes following the explosion and found Welch lying unconscious upon the sidewalk about six feet from the manhole that had caused the trouble. His son Paul was the first to arrive and with the help of James Colgan, a railroad passenger conductor, the unconscious man was carried to his home, from where he was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment. By night 10 was stated that although the patient was suffering from painful wounds he was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

The explosion at this point was so severe that buildings for several blocks felt the effects and occupants of the nurses' home at St. Joseph's hospital thought the boiler in the building had blown up. The pressure of gas in the conduits was high, as another manhole located in front of St. Mary's hall on Broad street was blown off at about the same time and the ground around the manhole was loosened considerably.

Men employed by the telephone company were unable to explain the cause of the explosion, but persons claiming a knowledge of such things stated that all the vents in the system had been closed by the ice that had formed in these places was unable to escape. This gas increased and when the pressure became too great the manhole covers at the two weakest points were blown off, thus allowing the gases to escape.

People living in that neighborhood claim they have noticed an odor of gas in the air for several months and that the smell of gas was more noticeable Monday night, so it seems that this explanation is as near the truth as any. One thing is sure about the explosion is that they came at an early hour in the morning. Had the explosion occurred during the day it must have caused more damage than it did as this stretch of the street is heavily traveled.

E. P. Chesbro, J. M. Bernard, O. B. Robinson and A. L. Weatherhead, delegates to the republican convention being held at New Haven, left this city Tuesday for that city in order to be there at the opening of the conference, when Senator Frank B. Brandegee addressed the meeting.

After having been troubled by pains about his eyes for some time, James D. Healey, section foreman in the local yard of the New Haven Railroad company, went to a local doctor early this morning after an examination an operation was performed and a piece of steel, three-quarters of an inch long and one-eighth of an inch wide was removed from his face, just beneath his left eye. Mr. Healey has carried this piece of steel in his cheek for nearly four years and never knew it was there until recently. About four years ago, while hammering upon some steel rails, he was struck in the cheek by a piece of steel, but as it never caused him any trouble nothing had been suspected until the pains became too severe to stand.

Archie Lessard again appeared before the police court Tuesday morning after having his case continued from Monday. This time he was found guilty of intoxication and received a jail sentence of 15 days, on which, however, judgment was suspended and he was placed on probation for six months. He was fined $2 and costs, amounting to $8.75. In the testimony against the accused, Chief Kliskey stated that he had received a telephone call at 10 o'clock Sunday morning from a woman who said that there was a drunken man in front of the store of Isadore Heller on Main street.

Mr. Heller in his testimony stated that Lessard had been in his store and bought a drink of soda and a cigar. The forensic man of the American Telephone and Telegraph company's construction crew along the Mansfield street-North Coventry road complained of the disappearance of lanterns placed for the protection of the traveling public.

The funeral of William Knox was held Tuesday afternoon at the undertaking parlors of J. M. Shepard at 62 North street. Services were conducted by Rev. A. D. Carpenter, pastor of the First Baptist church. The body was placed in the receiving vault in Willimantic cemetery and later will be taken to Brookville, Me., for burial.

The funeral of Mrs. Euchariste Germain of 24 Live street was held Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock. The requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. J. J. Papillon. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the services and beautiful floral tributes were received. The bearers were Louis Sanson, Adolphe Lafontaine, Joseph Thibault, Zacharie Martin, Ferdinand Bernier and Joseph Sanson. Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Among those attending the services from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Asselin of Warren, R. I., and Mrs. Alfred Carian of Woonsocket.

Louis Eli Barnes died Monday evening at St. Joseph's hospital from arterio sclerosis following an illness of about one week. Mr. Barnes was born in Berlin, this state, Sept. 11, 1859, and for many years was a resident of Bolton. About two years ago Mr. Barnes came to this city and entered the Wilson street mill of the Foster-Stewart company as fireman. He leaves no near relatives, his wife having died about six years ago.

Halsey Handerson Foss, son of Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Foss of 208 Summit street, celebrated his 5th birthday Monday evening, entertaining a number of young friends at a theatre party, after which they were served a luncheon. Master Halsey received many gifts.
